

CYBERSECURITY CAREERS FIND YOUR CALLING

Do you see yourself?

We all like to visualize ourselves doing a job before pursuing a career. Let these faces of professionals around the world show you that cybersecurity is open to everyone.

For me, my security origin story is murky because it was all before there was an actual cybersecurity profession.

Katie Moussouris
CEO of Luta Security

Researching threats had a very similar vibe to the investigative journalism work I wanted to do.

Ben Nahoney
Threat Intelligence Analyst
at Cisco Security

Instead of security being reduced to lines of code or sitting at a desk for 8 hours, it became about the human brain, teaching and connecting with people.

Fareedah Shaheed
CEO and Founder, Sekuva

I used root cause analysis to really dig deeper to understand the underlying technology and reasons for why things worked (and didn't work).

Jason Lau
Chief Information Security Officer
Crypto.com

The only skill I had to fall back on was my knowledge and curiosity for tech. So that is what I did.

Amanda Honea-Frias
Head of Product Security at Duo, Cisco

Once I could turn security into something creative that benefits people, it became my calling.

Tazin Khan Norelius
Founder of Cyber Collective
